Shipping Point Brokerage Is Out On Local Produce

The Florida Vegetable Brokers Association, made up of members from Pompano Beach, Pahokee, Clewiston and Belle Glade, announced this week that it has been advised by The Florida Fresh Produce Exchange and Florida Sweet Corn Exchange that shipping point brokers will not be eligible to receive brokerage for selling sweet corn and celery during the 1963-64 season.

In the past, all brokers, at both shipping point and receiving point, have collected brokerage for sales of sweet corn and celery. Under the present plan, receiving point brokers throughout the United States and Canada will continue to be paid brokerage for sales made while the shipping point broker will not.

Due to this change, many shipping point brokers will lose heavily in sales volume while receiving point brokers will increase their sales, according to one Pahokee Broker.

The Florida Vegetable Brokers Association advocates that if shipping point brokers are not eligible to receive brokerage payments, neither should the receiving point broker be eligible.

Luther Jones Is Rotary Speaker

Luther Jones, editor and publisher of the Belle Glade Herald, was the speaker yesterday at the regular meeting of the Pahokee Rotary club. Mr. Jones is a member of the Belle Glade Rotary club and a long-time resident of the Lake Okechobee Farming Region. The speaker and a group of South Florida residents returned recently from a trip to Europe and Russia. Mr. Jones' talk yesterday was centered around that trip and the many interesting side-lights they encountered traveling in a foreign land.

It's becoming a habit. Building multi-million dollar sugar mills in the Glades. Another one was nailed down Tuesday afternoon in a meeting of interested growers held at Glades Office Building, Atlantic Sugar Association, Inc., is the official name of the new concern. Plans call for an expenditure of $10,000,000 for the new mill. Only last week Osceola Farms, Inc., east of Canal Point announced doubling of their mill capacity.

Officers were elected Tuesday afternoon as follows: Sam Knight, President; C. W. Kidder, vice president; J. Allen Baker, treasurer; and Claude Jones, secretary. The board of directors is as follows: Sam Knight, C. W. Kidder, Sam Senter, Walter Schleeter, Thomas Ball, Peter Barberina, Edgar Wilder, E. R. Aguilu, J. F. Lawless, J. Allen Baker and Otto Larsen.

The executive committee is composed of the following: Mr. Knight, Mr. Kidder and J. F. Lawless.

The mill site is just south of SR 80, east of Belle Glade. Rules of the new mill will stipulate that all of the canaland must be within a 15-mile radius of the mill.

John Scopetta, Industrial Consultants and Management Corp., will be designing engineer of the new mill. The same firm designed the Glades County Co-op mill, near Moore Haven.

The mill capacity would require approximately 500,000 tons for full operation, but directors of Atlantic Sugar said they expected to meet that quota without any trouble.

There are now 59 boys residing at the Ranch. He stressed the fact that it is not a home for delinquents, but for boys who have no home. The project is financed by private donations and endowments.

Sheriff Kellenberger passed out booklets on traffic safety and also spoke briefly on the subject.

A pipeline carrying Pahokee water was completed to the north city limits of Pahokee this week. The line will serve the newly constructed Keen Mobile Home Park and the Pure Oil Service Station known as Glades Truck Stop and the Travelers Restaurant.

It took 4300 feet of six-inch pipe to construct the line at a cost to the City of Pahokee of $5300 for the pipe. Installation costs will run it a little more than that.

Clewiston Comes To Pahokee For Season Opener

The Clewiston Tigers will invade Pahokee tonight with only one idea in mind—that of trimming the Pahokee Blue Devils in the season opener on the local grid.

There has always been a warm rivalry between the Hendry county team and the Pahokee eleven and tonight's game will be no different than those of the past.

Pahokee Coaches have been putting their boys through tough drills for the past several weeks in an effort to get them into shape for tonight's battle. Prognosticators are wary about naming scores for the tilt this evening. The game starts at 8 p. m.

Belle Glade goes to Vero Beach for their season opener.

The top-selling Ford Galaxie 500 Series offers three distinctive new roof lines including the 4-door sedan (top photo). Five engines and four transmissions are offered including the Cruise-O-Matic Dual Range three-speed automatic transmission now available with all engines up to 390 cubic inches displacement.

The full Ford Galaxie line for 1964 includes 16 models with 2- and 4-door sedans, hardtops, convertibles and station wagons (bottom photo). The completely restyled cars will appear in Ford dealer showrooms September 27.

The restyled Ford Fairlane for 1964 presents a big-car appearance and boasts engine performance that was proved in the Indianapolis "500." Although new styling makes the midweight Fairlane look bigger, it remains about the size of the 1956 Ford on the outside and the 1959 Ford on the inside. Five engines are available, three of the same basic design as the Fairlane V-8 that powered Lotus cars to second and seventh places in the gruelling Indianapolis race. These include two 289-cubic-inch V-8s, one 260-cubic-inch V-8, plus 170- and 200-cubic-inch six-cylinder engines. Combined with five transmissions, these power plants offer a full array of performance and economy choices for 1964. Eight Fairlane models—hardtops, station wagons and sedans—will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms September 27.

September Mark GI Start Date

The last full year of schooling for Florida veterans taking education or training courses under the Korean GI bill begins this September, the Veterans Administration said today.

When this school year ends, only a half year of schooling will still be obtainable under the program. Courses starting in September, 1964, must come to a close on January 31, 1965.

Congress has set this cutoff date for the Korean readjustment program of education and training for veterans without service-connected disabilities. The law gives no authority to the VA to extend these benefits beyond these dates, L. V. McClelland Glades Veterans Service Office explained.

Originally, Korean Conflict veterans were eligible for 36 months of readjustment courses but now only 17 months will remain before the final deadline when school classes resume this September.

To be eligible for such readjustment education or training, veterans must have had active service at any time between June 27, 1950, and January 31, 1955. They also must have served at least 90 days and entered training within three years from their first discharge from that service.

Those veterans who were on active duty January 31, 1955, must enter training within 3 years from the date of their first unconditional discharge after January 31, 1955.

Eligible veterans may choose their own type of training in any school or establishment approved by an appropriate state agency, McClelland said.

They may enroll in schools or colleges; take on-the-job training; enroll in institutional on-the-farm training or other courses including flight, training cooperative or correspondence school courses.

Veterans will receive an allowance each month to meet part of their training and living expenses. First step is to obtain the necessary application forms at the Glades Veterans Service Office.

(Korean Conflict veterans with service-connected disabilities come under a different program and have different deadline dates.)

State's Financial Footing On Solid Ground, Says Official

TALLAHASSEE—State Budget Director Harry Smith reported to the cabinet recently the state's financial footing will be on solid ground for the next two years if the university expansion bond issue is approved.

Smith explained the state's income as now estimated would leave $13.2 million of the $79.2 million construction unfunded. If the voters approve the issuance of bonds to finance university and junior college construction, the balance will be taken care of.

He reported the state's net revenue until June 30, 1965 will total $600.3 million. The cost of operating the state government will come to $604.3 million, he said.

Ringling Museum Shown On TV

SARASOTA—Florida's famed Ringling Museum of Art was on display to millions of television viewers Sunday, Sept. 1, when CBS presented a program entitled "The Changing Image" on its "Look Up and Live" series.

Host for the program was museum director Kenneth Donahue who introduced the museum's collection of Baroque paintings to the audience. Over 30 of the museum's most familiar works were featured in the half hour program.

The telecast featured such artists as Rubens, Rembrandt, El Greco and Bernini. It also focused on the museum's Italian Renaissance garden showing the beautiful statuary and plantings.

The program was originally taped last March by technicians from CBS in New York and Tampa's CBS outlet, WTVT.

We Eat More Food Now Than We Did During Depression

Total food consumption per person in the United States is less now than in the 1930's or even in the war years of the 1940's, according to Dr. H. C. Giles, livestock marketing specialist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service.

During the 30's, the average American put away 1,518 pounds of food each year, a figure which rose to 1,587 pounds during the 1940's. However, this peak figures of the war years declined by 100 pounds in the 1950's. Today the average American eats only 1,461 pounds of food each year, 57 pounds less than during the depression.

The American's rising standard of living has stimulated increased use of red meat in the modern diet. Since meat is a rich source of protein, fat, and calories, the greater consumption of meat has reduced the need for such carbohydrate foods as cereal grains and potatoes. Thus the rise in meat consumption has stimulated a drop in the use of certain other foods, with the overall result that total intake has declined.

Per capita consumption of red meat in the United States has increased from 134 pounds in 1930, to 162 pounds per person last year. The most striking increase occurred in beef consumption, which climbed from about 55 pounds per person in the early thirties to 87 pounds in 1962.

Must Pay Income Tax On Interest On Your Savings

Federal law requires all tax payers to include on their Federal Income tax returns as income all interest and dividends received or credited to their accounts and pay any tax that may be due. This is not a new tax.

Tully Dunlap, President, Florida Bankers Association, states that now regulations also require all banks and all other payers of interest or dividends of $10 or more to any one account during each calendar year to report these payments to the Internal Revenue Service.

Internal Revenue regulations require the payer—whether a bank or any other payer—to furnish the recipient's Social Security number or other identifying number to Internal Revenue with each reported payment. The regulations provide a penalty of $5 which may be imposed upon any taxpayer who fails to supply his identifying number to the payer of interest or dividends. This penalty for each failure will be collected in the same way as the Federal income tax.

Savings depositors or bank stockholders who have not reported their Social Security numbers to their bank, should now complete Part 1 of Form 3455, available from banks on request, and return the form to their bank. Those without a Social Security number should ask for an application form for an identifying number.

During the last twenty years, there has been a phenomenal growth in the number of tax returns filed with the Internal Revenue Service. In 1940 there were 19 million tax returns filed; today the volume has increased to over 94 million returns, representing revenue collections of almost $95 billion. The methods of the 1940's are clearly inadequate to handle today's huge volume.

The Internal Revenue Service, has developed an Automatic Data processing system, called ADP, which has the ability to verify returns at a speed tax experts would have considered impossible only a few years ago.

But to use this high-speed electronic equipment to its fullest advantage, some means had to be devised to identify properly a given taxpayer's account. Problems such

A longer hood, integrated bumper and grille and rectangular taillights enhance its traditional look of elegance (top photo). New features of its cockpit motif interior styling (bottom photo) include separate instrument pods, a distinctive new command console, and covered rear seats. An optional reclining seat for the front passenger includes an extendable head rest for complete relaxation on long trips. A new Silent-Flo ventilation system includes a vent at the bottom of the rear window on Landau and Hardtop models. The new Thunderbirds will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms September 27.

Common Cold Is Absence Cause In Public Schools

The common cold continues to be the largest single factor contributing to the 24.9 days per school year the average Florida student is absent from school, according to a study by Schering Corporation, a leading pharmaceutical company.

Using statistics from the National Education Association, the study reveals that Florida ranks 43rd in days attended per pupil. The best attendance record for the 1962-63 school year was set by the state of Washington with an average of 10.5 days missed. Utah was second with 11.2. The national average of school absences was 18.9. Medical surveys indicate that children of elementary school age have five times as many colds as adults. According to a 1963 U. S. Public Health Service report, respiratory illnesses were responsible for about two-thirds of school days lost because of acute illnesses or injuries during the 1961-2 school year.

The first onslaught of colds strikes the schools almost as soon as children reassemble for the new year. One contributing factor to this, according to research scientists, is that spread of colds like other virus-caused infections is accelerated by the mixing of populations. In fixed stable groups which are not exposed to strangers, cold-like infections tend to die out, and do not reappear until there is contact outside the group.

as identical names, address changes or change of name through marriage had to be overcome.

The solution was to assign a number to each taxpayer. This number is to be used on all future tax returns and in statements furnished to the Internal Revenue Service by payers of taxable income, as required by law. In addition to solving operational problems, the numbering system will permit the Internal Revenue Service to determine whether all taxable income has been reported by each taxpayer. This will be accomplished by matching the taxpayer's return against the reports of income paid him from various sources.

Bond Issue Will Provide Money For Universities

TAMPA—Gov. Farris Bryant recently launched a statewide campaign to sell voters on a $75 million bond issue to finance new buildings for junior colleges and universities.

He spoke at a luncheon attended by some 400 people in the New Floridian Hotel in Tampa.

The bond issue authorized by the legislature would be financed by pledging revenue from the state's utility taxes for the next 50 years. Voting on the issue will take place Nov. 5.

Gov. Bryant introduced Thomas F. Fleming Jr., Boca Raton banker, who is chairman of "Citizens for Florida's Future," a statewide organization formed to back the bond program.

Fleming said the program had received the support of the Florida Council of 100, Florida State Chamber of Commerce, the Florida Engineering Society, the Florida Teachers Association, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Young Democrats and the Florida Education Association, among other groups.

Honorary presidents of the Citizens for Florida's Future are former governor Doyle E. Carlton of Tampa, insurance executive S. Kendrick Guernsey, Robert H. Gore, Jr. of Ft. Lauderdale; State Sen. Beth Johnson of Orlando, Pensacola Mayor Charles P. Mason and Mrs. Sydney Weintraub of Miami.

Fleming warned if the bond issue isn't passed by the voters it will be up to the governor to call the legislature back into session and call for additional direct taxes to provide a pay-as-you-go program.

Pahokee, Florida

The community of Belle Glade is facing a crisis in connection with day care facilities for pre-school Negro children. The day nurseries in the Labor Centers are filled to capacity in serving those families who live there.

The present care for pre-school Negro children of working mothers living in Belle Glade is inadequate, unsanitary and endangering the health and safety of small children who are left with anyone who will care for them while the mothers work early and late in the agricultural industry.

To care for these pre-school children of working mothers a group of prominent Glades citizens of all races have united as Wee Care, Inc., to provide a modern building to accommodate 100 children. This building meets the high standards set by the Health Department of Palm Beach County. Wee Care Nursery School will be operated by the Salvation Army. A staff of trained Negro workers will be selected and will work under the supervision of the Salvation Army and a local Advisory Board. The children will not only be given three meals a day and clean cots for rest periods, but will be trained to appreciate moral and spiritual values.

The present emergency for day care for Negro pre-school children has prompted representative citizens of the Belle Glade area to recommend this campaign for $72,000. $60,000 is to be used for erection of the Wee Care Day Nursery on the beautiful lot provided by the foresight of the Negro Women's Civic League and the City of Belle Glade, $12,000 from the campaign will be allotted to the Salvation Army for the operation of the Day Care Center for the first year. This will be supplemented by the modest fees paid by the parents.

Bowen said, "We intend to support to the fullest all efforts of our law enforcement officials to reverse the present trend toward an all-time record of death and destruction occurring in our state this year."

Bowen also said, "A unified approach involving not only enforcement personnel but concerted action on the part of our courts, our traffic engineers, our educators and most importantly our people is a necessary ingredient to any successful program of accident prevention. The finest enforcement program ever conceived in the mind of man cannot by itself solve this serious problem."

The other day I was reviewing the notes I made during my recent people-to-people tour of several European countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain. Our party included nearly 50 Florida agricultural and business leaders.

Three things stand out prominently in my impressions during our 1,500-mile tour in Soviet Russia:

(1) The housing situation; (2) health protection; (3) education. It is true that, measured by American standards, housing in Moscow and probably in most of the large cities, is woefully inadequate. But I think it is a mistake to use our unusually high standards of living in the United States as a yardstick for comparisons in the Soviet countries.

To measure progress in the USSR since the revolution one should be familiar with conditions that prevailed prior to that upheaval.

Like the majority of other American visitors, however, our group found it difficult to avoid comparing what we saw with the conditions prevailing in the U. S. today.

The Russians are pushing housing construction and, though they have a long way to go, they probably can achieve a vast improvement in the next few years.

They are putting much emphasis on health protection and medical service. It's "medicare" on a huge national scale, a natural development in a socialist state which offers security to the individual as compensation for the sacrifice of personal liberties which we Americans value above all else.

Education is free all the way up through the institutions of higher learning and a student may continue his pursuit of knowledge as far as his capacity and talents qualify him to keep on with his education.

But I'm inclined to think that the Communist regime may discover its emphasis on education will backfire eventually. Already there have been signs of students' restlessness and dissatisfaction with life under Communism. The educated mind learns to inquire rather than to accept blindly.

Nevertheless, because of their indoctrination in Communist ideology at an early age, it may be a long time before the people's urge for more freedom and a better life are sufficiently widespread to bring about an important relaxation of the Kremlin's total controls.

Two important factors are active in preserving the Russian people's acceptance of what we Americans view as intolerable conditions:

(1) The state has practically complete custody and control over the education of the Soviet child from the time it is about 9 years old, and

(2) The state controls all the mediums of communication—the press, radio and TV—and the movement of its people beyond its borders. Also, it restricts sharply the contacts its citizens may have with the small number of permitted visitors from the West who might "contaminate" or "sabotage" the influence of Communist ideology.

I was impressed, as were others in our group, with the vast potential of agriculture in the USSR. If and when the state can devote more effort and money to the development of its land resources, and less to its military and the production of arms, I feel sure we shall witness a big increase in Russian agricultural output.

That belief was confirmed by the Ministry of Agriculture when we visited Moscow. We were informed that, now that the test ban treaty is signed, the USSR can expect to devote a greater share of its national budget to increase production of much-needed fertilizer and the improvement and updating of farm technology.

The Russians boast of having no unemployment problem. It's doubtful if we in the United States would be bothered with that problem now if our production efficiency was as low as it is in the USSR.

In addition to the huge military force they maintain, several workers are used on almost any job you can think of which, in America, can be performed by a single person. In agriculture, especially, worker efficiency is far below the standard in the U. S. Some 17 per cent of the population is engaged in agriculture, compared with less
